Dear Representative Ackley:

Through the Clean Energy Corridor, Hydro-Québec will provide affordable clean power directly to Mainers while reducing pollution throughout New England. While we are working with local and regional partners, oil and gas companies oppose the project to protect their market share and profits. The clean affordable energy that will be delivered on this line will displace higher emitting and more expensive fossil fuels in a region with high electricity rates.

Sustainability and transparency are at the heart of Hydro-Québec's culture. Our central mission is to develop clean, renewable energy and play a fundamental role in the emerging low-carbon economy, at the lowest cost possible to consumers. Affordable and reliable clean electricity exports to New England are drivers of sustainability. Our business decisions are based on these principles, and on the scientific facts pertaining to our energy.

Hydro-Québec has the utmost of respect for the laws in place in the state of Maine. Our communication efforts are solely focused on sharing facts about the project and about our energy, so that Mainers have the information they need to make decisions.

We will continue to inform Mainers of the many benefits of this project, including the clean energy that has been made available to them at a discounted price, the 1,600 local jobs that will be created, and the $258 M in direct contributions to the state for rate relief and investment in needed broadband and electric vehicle infrastructure, with accelerated payments starting this fall. In the context of climate change, we will continue to inform Mainers that this project will significantly reduce carbon emissions – carbon reductions that are equivalent to the emissions of 750 000 vehicles, every year.

These commitments are significant and Mainers should be aware of the benefits that come with the development of the NECEC project.

Hydro-Québec has been and will continue to be fully transparent with regards to its ongoing information efforts. Mainers deserve transparency and expect it from all energy suppliers, including the oil and gas industry.

It is correct that laws on both sides of our common border prohibit the involvement of foreign governments and entities in candidate elections; however, we are not in the context of a candidate election, but rather of a referendum with the aim of stopping a project that has followed Maine's extensive multi-year review process and lawfully obtained all required authorizations in Maine including from the Maine Public Utilities Commission and the Maine Department of Environmental Protection.

Hydro-Québec's campaign efforts are not aimed at influencing upcoming elections. Rather, we aim to provide facts to inform Mainers in consideration of a ballot question that would deny Maine the largest clean energy project in our region, as well as significant long-term benefits for the state.

Sincerely,

Serge Abergel
